A voice for Soundroom

Soundroom brings the intimacy of a record shop into a music discovery workspace. A compressed display face, coral panels and lilac accents sit inside a quiet black interface. Album artwork mixes concert photography with equalizer and holographic textures, giving each release a different visual presence. The page moves from a featured listening session to new records and a compact selection of tracks. Search, saved releases and a local queue give the screen a clear purpose. Its custom symbol combines a record groove with an open doorway, suggesting a room that is always ready for another sound.
