

orbit

Good work finds its rhythm.

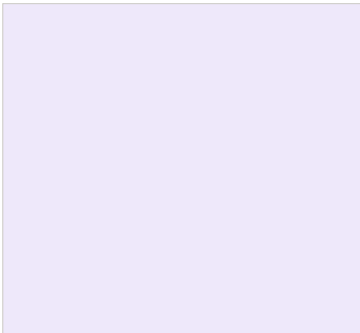

A collaborative project workspace that gives small creative teams a clear view of their priorities, progress, and shared responsibilities.

An orbital path and central point represent individual contributions moving around one shared purpose.

A voice for orbit

Orbit helps creative teams keep their work moving without losing the bigger picture. The workspace organizes active projects, daily priorities, and team activity around a clear, approachable dashboard. Soft lavender panels and dark purple typography create a focused atmosphere, while small color signals make progress and ownership easy to scan. The orbital symbol expresses coordinated movement around a shared goal. A working status filter and task completion controls bring the interface to life, supported by realistic project names, deadlines, and collaborator details. The design’s purpose is to make teamwork feel lighter: fewer scattered updates, more visible progress, and a shared place to find the next useful step.
